Directory of Neurosurgeons and Neurologists for Adult Hydrocephalus

This Directory is published and distributed by the Hydrocephalus Association, a national non-profit organization founded in San Francisco, California, in 1983.

The purpose of this Directory is to identify neurosurgeons and neurologists who have experience diagnosing and treating normal pressure hydrocephalus (NPH) and adult onset hydrocephalus. There are 2 asterisks before the doctor's name if they are a neurologist. A brief explanation of the different roles neurosurgeons and neurologists have in the treatment of adult hydrocephalus is provided just before the listing of doctors. The Directory is intended solely as a resource and the physicians listed herein are in no way endorsed, reviewed or recommended by the Association or its members. Information presented in the Directory has been compiled from questionnaires completed by the physicians.

Doctors in the US are listed alphabetically by state, city and last name. Doctors in other countries follow, listed alphabetically by country, city and last name. There is an asterisk before each doctor's name if they work with pediatric patients as well as adults.

About the Hydrocephalus Association

The Hydrocephalus Association is a national, 501 (c)(3) nonprofit organization founded in 1983. Our mission is to eliminate the challenges of hydrocephalus by stimulating innovative research and providing support, education and advocacy for individuals, families and professionals dealing with hydrocephalus.

As the nation's most widely respected hydrocephalus support organization, the Association has been instrumental in creating a community of individuals, families and health care professionals addressing the complexities of hydrocephalus in all age groups—infants, children, young adults and adults. We continually update and expand our resources to keep up with new technologies in the diagnosis and treatment of hydrocephalus and stay current with the needs of the individuals we serve.

Hydrocephalus is a chronic condition. However, with early detection, effective treatment and appropriate interventional services, the future for individuals with hydrocephalus is promising. We invite your inquiries.

Neurosurgeons and Neurologists Explained

People often ask us what the difference is between a neurologist and a neurosurgeon—with all the medical lingo involved; it can be difficult to get a straight answer. While the following sets of frequently asked questions don't explain all of the details, they do provide a general understanding of neurology and neurosurgery.

Neurosurgeons and neurologists are both medical doctors with specialized training in the diagnosis, treatment and management of neurological disorders. A neurological disorder is an injury to, or disease of, the brain, spine, or peripheral nerves.

What is the role of a neurosurgeon?

In addition to diagnosis, a neurosurgeon may provide either surgical or non-surgical care depending on the nature of the injury, illness, or condition. Sometimes a primary care physician who suspects adult hydrocephalus will refer directly to a neurosurgeon, sometimes they will first refer to a neurologist, and then refer on to the neurosurgeon once a diagnosis has been confirmed.

In the case of hydrocephalus, the neurosurgeon is the one that performs the shunt implant or ETV surgery.

For patients with externally adjustable or programmable shunt valves, the neurosurgeon may personally perform the fine-tuning adjustments in the months and years after surgery, or they may work with a neurologist who manages this.

How are neurosurgeons trained?

After four years of medical school and an internship program, the doctor enters a neurosurgical residency program of five to seven years. While in the program, neurosurgical residents are trained in all aspects of neurosurgery, including cerebrovascular, pediatrics, spine, trauma, and tumor. Some neurosurgeons opt to do an additional fellowship in a particular area of study following their residency.

What is the role of a neurologist?

In addition to diagnosis, a neurologist can prescribe medication or recommend surgical treatment, but they do not perform surgery. A primary care physician will often refer a patient to a neurologist for a diagnostic workup before referring to a neurosurgeon. Especially in cases where there are related or concurrent neurological disorders, neurologists can be very helpful.

In the case of adult hydrocephalus, neurologists can be helpful in diagnosis and management. When treatment includes surgery, neurologists may monitor and supervise continuing treatment.

For patients with an externally adjustable or programmable shunt valve, a neurologist may be involved in fine-tuning the shunt settings in the months and years after surgery.

How are neurologists trained?

After four years of medical school and a one-year internship, a neurologist enters three years of specialized training for neurology. Many neurologists also have additional training in one specific area of neurology such as stroke, epilepsy or movement disorders.
